The Discovery

Scene: A college student named Arjun discovers a mysterious watch inside an old abandoned laboratory. The watch can send him exactly five minutes into the past, but it can only be used three times. At first, Arjun uses it for small things, like fixing mistakes in class and winning a game. But when his best friend disappears after entering the laboratory, Arjun realizes that his actions have changed the future. He uses the final two attempts to uncover what happened and save his friend. In the end, Arjun discovers that the mysterious watch was created by his future self, who had been trying to warn him about the consequences of changing time.
